Operational

Grossbarm - Immigration Visa to U.S.

1. ☐ made a blind query to Paul Hoylen, U.S. Consulate, Visa Section, concerning the time required for a German citizen to receive an immigration visa to the U.S. Hoylen states that the German quota is still open. Assuming that the applicant (a) gets a security clearance; (b) has an affidavit of support, and (c) encounters no other "administrative" difficulties, he can expect to get to the U.S. approximately four months after submitting his original application.

2. Hoylen is aware of ☐ 's KUBARK affiliation, and stated that if we were to endeavor to expedite the security clearance, the waiting time might be decreased by as much as a month.
